DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 13-24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 13, line 5: there is no antecedent basis for "the construction" and there is no further apparatus limitation that structurally defines "construction".

Claim 14 is apparently incomplete since the necessary apparatus structure that defines how the optical fiber is adapted to act as a sensor is omitted.

Claim 23: what is the structure that permits the filaments to act as "sensory organs"? It is not clear what or how the optical fiber is connected to an electrical crystal. The property "resistance in the optical fiber changes" is not understood.

Claim 24: "the doctor blade is arranged between momentary and continuous duration..." - it is not clear what is being claimed. It appears that a method of operation is claimed.

2. Claims 13 and 24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Esser et al (5,221,351).

Esser et al shows an arrangement for measuring the movement of a doctor blade for a blade coater for coating paper. The doctor blade is held in place by bracket 9, support beam 28 and pneumatic hoses 10 and 11. The arrangement allows for the measurement of the movements of the blade including that caused by blade wear, and thereby control the set angle of the blade, column 1, lines 7-23. Esser et al uses mercury switches, which serve as sensor and signal element, are positioned along the doctor blade in Figure 1, last paragraph of column 1 spanning column 2. Esser also teaches the alternative arrangements in place of mercury switches: arrangement of lasers and photoelectric cells and arrangement of magnetic material and Hall probes, column 2.

Thus, Esser et al, to the extent that the claims are understood, anticipates or obviously shows the claimed invention.

Claim 24 is assumed to be a method of operation and hence does not impart further patentable weight to the apparatus structure being claimed.

3. Claims 14-23 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
